Cybersecurity incident information

The DELFINGEN group has detected an intrusion into its information system, which has led to data leaks. The scope identified was limited to a few legacy Schlemmer applications. These applications were being uninstalled, which does not cause any disruption to day-to-day operations.

DELFINGEN's teams, supported by experts, are fully mobilized and have immediately taken the necessary measures to reinforce existing protection and minimize potential impacts.

The company is in close contact with the various stakeholders and the relevant authorities.
